HOOVER'S 1st ANNUAL MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

ASKS AGAIN FOR LIMITED TARIFF CHANGES

URGES IT TO RELIEVE BUSINESS FROM FURTHER UNCERTAINTY

OUTLINES BROAD PLAN FOR DEALING WITH NATION'S PROGRESS

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Dec. 3.—Renewing his recommendation for limited tariff changes as outlined to the special session last April, President Hoover in his first annual message to congress today urged it to relieve business from further uncertainty by prompt action on the revision program.

"It would be most helpful if action should be taken at an early moment, more especially at a time when business and agriculture are both co-operating to minimize future uncertainties," the president declared. "It is just that they should know what the rates are to be."

In his first comprehensive survey of the domestic and international position of the nation since he entered the White House, the president outlined a broad program for dealing with the "problems of growth and progress," which, he declared, are the chief problems confronting the new session of congress.

With confidence restored in business the president said in reviewing the achievements of the recent White House conferences with the country's leading financiers, labor leaders and business men, the nation is on a steady, economic keel.

"I am convinced that through these measures we have re-established confidence," he said. "Wages should remain stable. A very large degree of industrial unemployment and suffering which would otherwise have occurred has been prevented. Agricultural prices have reflected the returning confidence."

Among the president's recommendations for legislative or executive action are:

1. An immediate tax reduction of one per cent on both individual and corporate incomes for the calendar year 1929.

2. Renewed efforts to realize a railroad consolidation program.

3. Studies looking to reduction of a "continuously mounting" military outlay.

4. Ratification of the world court protocol under the terms of the Hirst-Root agreement.

5. Immediate increase in the inland waterways appropriations from $50,000,000 to $55,000,000 annually.

6. General revision of air mail rates "upon a more systematic and permanent footing."

7. Expansion of the United States merchant marine through award of sustaining mail contracts on fourteen new routes calling for 400,000 tons of new ships at a cost of $250,000,000.

8. Revision of the national banking laws to care for vastly altered conditions growing out of the expansion of chain banking.

9. Reorganization of the federal radio commission as a permanent agency of the government.

10. A beginning on re-organization of the government departments, including concentration of the prohibition enforcement machinery in the department of justice.

Coupled with this specific recommendations for invigorating the federal prohibition enforcement machinery, the president again pointed to the nation's need for better law observance generally.

"I have been gratified at the awakening sense of this responsibility in our citizens during the past few months," the chief executive declared, "and gratified that many instances have occurred which refute the cynicism which has asserted that our system could not convict those who had defied the law and possessed the means to resist its execution. These things reveal a moral awakening both in the people and in officials which lies at the very foundation of the rule of law."

"Our laws are made by the people themselves; theirs is the right to work for their repeal; but until repealed it is an equal duty to observe them and demand their enforcement."

"We can no longer gloss over the unpleasant reality which should be made visible to the consciousness of every citizen, that he who condones or tolerates crime, who is indifferent to the punishment of the criminal, is himself the most effective barrier to the breakdown of society."

There received more space in the message than any other topic.

Not only at peace with all READ, but the foundations for future peace are being substantially "strengthened," the president declared, summarizing our international relations. The Kellogg-Briand pact has been a "great moral standard" under which "a new world outlook" has been inaugurated.

Emphasizing that the senate reservations of 1926 had been realized through the Hirst-Root agreement, the president declared he would submit the world court protocol with a special message "at some time when it is convenient to deal with it."

"Our adherence to the international court is, as now constituted, not the slightest step toward entry into the League of Nations," he said.

Appointment of a special commission to study conditions in Haiti is suggested as a step toward "some more definite policy than at present." In China and Nicaragua, the only other foreign countries in which the United States marines are on duty, the president hopes to reduce the forces as rapidly as possible. "In a large sense," he declared in listing the foreign detachments, "we do not wish to be represented abroad in such manner."

To further improve relations with South America the administration program looks to strengthening of our diplomatic representation in that region. "It is my hope to secure men long experienced in our diplomatic service, who speak the languages of the people to whom they are accredited." Several nominations of this calibre soon will be sent to the senate.

Again pointing out that the United States budget for purely military purposes "is in excess of those of the most highly militarized nations of the world," the message recommended consideration by congress of a program to curb the "continuously mounting" outlay.

"To preserve internal order and freedom from encroachment is the first purpose of government," the chief executive declared. "Our army and navy as at present constituted 'are ample for this purpose.'"

"Our combined military expenditures for 1914 were $267,000,000 against $730,000,000 anticipated for the current fiscal year."

"We can well be deeply concerned, however, for the growing expense," he continued. "From a defensive point of view our forces should be proportioned to national need and should, therefore, to some extent be modified by the prospects of peace, which were never brighter than today. Upon the conference shortly to be held in London will depend such moderation as we can make in naval reduction. We hold high hopes that success may attend this effort."

But should the conference fail, the president warned, "we shall be committed during the next six years to an upward of $1,200,000,000 besides the necessary further increases in costs for annual upkeep."

Repeating his opposition to the existing national-origins immigration quota, the president urged further study of the problem by congress with a view to establishing a selective policy based upon the "fitness of the immigrant as to physique, character and training," rather than nativity.

Other policies, previously announced but formally recommended for the first time in the message include:

Appointment of a congressional committee to dispose of Muscle Shoals, the committee to be authorized not to report and recommend, but "to negotiate and complete some sort of contract or contracts on behalf of the government."

Appropriations to inaugurate construction work of the Boulder Dam project.

Continuance of federal maternity and infant welfare through the children's bureau.

Immediate appropriation to expand prison facilities and establishment of a bureau of prisons, in charge of qualified experts, in the department of justice.

Unification under the veterans' bureau of the pension bureau and scattered soldier relief activities.

Extension of civil service regulations to third-class postmaster appointments.

A summary of the message on other major problems follows:

Government Finance

"The finances of the government are in sound condition. The public debt on June 30 this year stood at $16,931,000,000, compared to the maximum in August, 1919, of $26,596,000,000. In the budget to be submitted the total appropriations recommended for the fiscal year 1931 are $3,830,445,231, as compared to $3,976,141,651 for the present fiscal year. We cannot fail to recognize the obligations of the government in support of the public welfare but we must coincidentally bear in mind the burden of taxes and strive to find relief through some tax reduction. Every dollar so returned fertilizes the soil of prosperity."

"I recommend that the normal income tax rates applicable to the incomes of individuals for the calendar year 1929 be reduced from 5, 3 and 1 1/2 per cent to 4, 2 and 1/4 per cent, and that the tax on the income of corporations for the calendar year 1929 be reduced from 12 to 11 per cent."

Congress Ready to Take Up Most Important Recommendation of Hoover, Tax Reduction

HOPE TO HAVE IT ACTED ON BY THURSDAY

HOUSE WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE TO HEAR MILLS OUTLINE PROCEDURE

THE 3-YEAR-OLD VARE ELECTION CASE TO COME BEFORE SENATE TODAY

By PAUL R. MALLON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Dec. 3.—President Hoover's 12,000-word message on the prosperous state of the Union will be sent to congress today where it will find congressional leaders already busy with what they understand to be its most important recommendation, tax reduction.

Before the message is delivered today Chairman Smoot intends to call his senate finance committee together to act informally upon the reduction resolution presented in the house yesterday as the first order of business there.

Smoot hopes to get his committee to sanction the resolution ahead of time so he can speed it through the senate after it has passed the house next Thursday. His plan would avoid referring the resolution to the committee after it reaches the senate.

Such speed is extremely unusual and is made possible only by the unanimity of opinion among most of the factions of republicans and democrats. They believe business men and individual taxpayers should know definitely before Christmas that they are going to pay $160,000,000 less to the government in taxes next year.

The house ways and means committee will meet tomorrow to hear Under-Secretary Mills outline the way the reduction would work out. Smoot does not intend to call Mellon or any other witness unless members of the committee desire.

The attitude of the leaders toward the tax reduction recommendations indicates their general attitude toward the entire message. They know how the president stands about most issues and they have laid their plans accordingly.

The three-year-old election case of Senator-elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania was to come up in the senate this second day of the session, under a special order adopted during the recent special session. Vare's friends were working to delay consideration of it until next Monday. They want first to get a report from the privileges and elections committee on the contest against Vare, brought by his defeated democratic opponent, William B. Wilson.

The leader of the fight against Vare, Chairman Norris of the senate judiciary committee, will not consent to the delay. He wants action now on his resolution to deprive Vare of a seat because of his primary campaign expenditures of $785,000.

The democrats are not inclined to go along with Norris. They intend to vote to oust Vare, but they are eager that the Wilson contest be decided first, without the assistance of the democrats Norris is almost certain to lose and it is generally expected the case may go over until next Monday.

Vare is to appear in person to conduct his fight for a seat. He was granted the privilege of the senate floor for this purpose in a resolution adopted when he was denied the oath of office in 1927. He has prepared a statement which he intends to read.

If the Vare case is delayed, the tariff bill will be brought from the shelf for consideration. Two-thirds of the bill has been finished in the special session and Smoot has a faint hope that he may get final action upon it before the Christmas recess, Dec. 20.

The house has no other business, save the president's message.

EVERYBODY SUFFERED BUT FATHER IN CASE

Los Angeles, Dec. 3.—(U.P.)—Everybody suffered but father when Jimmie Scofield got a spanking.

When his mother spanked him, his father promptly turned her over his knee and spanked her, it was related in superior court by Mrs. Lavern Scofield. She was granted a divorce from John Scofield and custody of Jimmy.

Senate Takes Up Norris Resolution on Vare

Washington, Dec. 3.—(U.P.)—After a controversy over procedure, the senate voted, 43 to 30, today to proceed with consideration of the Norris resolution which deprives Senator-elect Vare, republican, Pennsylvania, of his seat in the senate.

GETS HEADACHE FIGURING OUT RELATIONSHIPS

Dublin, Dec. 3.—(U.P.)—When Ower Stant, 40, farmer, married his stepmother-in-law, he became the world's champion in-law and got a headache trying to figure out who was what.

His stepmother-in-law, Mrs. Joseph Lamberson, 39, is now his bride, of course, but what the relationship of his children by his former wife, her children by a previous marriage, his present wife's children by her former marriage, etc., are beyond him.

Before his recent marriage Stant was a stepson-in-law to his wife's children by her first marriage, and half brother-in-law to the children of Joseph Lamberson and his wife. His present wife was his children's step grandmother, his present wife's own children were step-uncles and step-aunts to his own children, and so forth.

Now he is a stepbrother-in-law to his former wife's brothers and sisters and their stepfather as well, besides being step grandfather to his own children.

PROGRESS OF PEACE MOVE IS RETARDED AGAIN

CHINA AND RUSSIA HALT IN NEGOTIATIONS OVER CHINESE EASTERN RAILWAY

SOVIET OFFICIALS NOW PREFER TO DEAL DIRECTLY WITH MANCHURIA

Tokio, Dec. 3.—(U.P.)—Progress of peace negotiations between China and Russia were retarded today, a dispatch from Nippon Dempo, Japanese news agency, said.

The dispatch, from Harbin, said Soviet officials had refused to deal with representatives of the Nanking government, preferring to confer with Manchurian officials directly, in the belief that they could extract more satisfactory terms.

In Mukden, home office of Chang Hsueh-Liang, war-lord of Manchuria, opinion was divided, many officials believing that any independently arrived at treaty would be subject to the ultimate approval of the central (Nanking) government.

Chang's position is made increasingly difficult because of the threat of an uprising of arsenal workers and other government employees. The dispatch said the employees have received only 70 per cent of their November salaries. Troops patrolled the arsenal grounds.

VETERAN MAIL PILOT 30 HOURS OVERDUE

Cleveland, O., Dec. 3.—(U.P.)—Thomas P. Nelson, veteran mail pilot, lost somewhere in the Alleghenies, was more than 30 hours overdue today. Nine planes hummed and dipped along the Pennsylvania foothills in the search. Nelson was on his way from New York to Cleveland late Sunday night with the overnight mail when he disappeared.

SOUTHEASTERN CHINA FACING A REVOLUTION

ARMIES OF REVOLT LED BY THE "IRONSIDES" DIVISIONS AND KWANGSI TROOPS

SEEK POSSESSION OF CITY OF CANTON, ACCORDING TO DISPATCHES RECEIVED

London, Dec. 3.—(U.P.)—Revolutionary armies, led by the famous "Ironsides" divisions and Kwangsi troops, have opened a sudden concentrated attack in southeastern China, seeking possession of the city of Canton, dispatches received here today said.

An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Hong Kong said that the battle for possession of Canton had raged throughout the night along the important river points near the city. Cantonese wounded were reported to be pouring into the city today.

The Exchange Telegraph reports carried no detailed description of the battle but indicated that heavy fighting was occurring both to the north and south of the mouth of the Canton river, along which the invading Kwangsi troops have been approaching from the west for several weeks. The Ironsides troops, organized in the northern provinces by General Chang Fa-Kwei, and only recently ordered disbanded by the nationalist government, were reported to be attacking the Cantonese troops on the north of the Canton river, while the Kwangsi troops led the offensive to the west of the river's mouth, forcing suspension of all shipping.

Cantonese headquarters were reported to have sent out heavy reinforcements to repel the attack and were employing airplanes extensively against the revolutionary armies.

The Kwangsi troops have menaced Canton for some time, advancing from Kwangsi province to the west along the Canton river into Kwangtung province of which Canton is the capital.

General Chiang Kai-Shek's attempts to concentrate against the Kwangsi rebellion has been complicated by similar rebellions in the northern provinces and by the recent situation in Manchuria. The nationalist government head several weeks ago sent reinforcements to Canton to guard against possible attempts of the Kwangsi troops to gain possession of the important eastern coast city.

SOME OF MacALPINE PARTY REACH THE PAS BY AIRPLANE

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 3.—(U.P.)—Two members of the Col. C. D. H. MacAlpine aerial exploration party of eight, located recently after having been missing in the Arctic wastes for weeks, reached The Pas today by air and the others were expected to follow before nightfall.

Don Goodwin, Hamilton, Ont., aviation mechanic, and Richard Pearce, Canadian journalist, were the first of the party to arrive from Stoney Rapids.

Goodwin's feet were frozen on the long march from the place where MacAlpine's planes were forced down near Queensland Gulf to Cambridge Bay, Victoria Island, and it was feared several of his toes may have to be amputated.

FIRST BANK STOCK CORPORATION ADDS ANOTHER BANK

Affiliation of the Windom bank increases the resources of the corporation to $445,000,000 and brings the number of banks in the chain to 75.

YOUNG ROCKEFELLER GOES TO FATHER AND DISCUSSES JOB

New York, Dec. 3.—(U.P.)—John D. Rockefeller, III, thinks it would be "darned interesting" to put on overalls and work in the oil fields, but he won't do it.

He has a job at 26 Broadway, an address which is known the world over as the headquarters of the Standard Oil company. Yesterday the heir to one of the greatest fortunes ever accumulated went down to his father's office to discuss getting a job.

He got it, but his salary will be "about the same" as any other young man without business experience would receive from the Standard Oil company. Young Rockefeller—he is 23 years old and just out of Princeton—is taller than either his father or grandfather. He wore a mixed brown suit, starched collar and had his hair parted neatly on the left side.

John D., Jr., sat at a flat-topped desk in front of the fireplace and John D., III, his long legs sticking out beyond the desk, was in an armchair beside his father. The elder Rockefeller explained that his son would do most of the talking.

Questions came quickly.

"What time do you expect to get down to work?"

"It hasn't been arranged yet. Nine o'clock, I suppose."

"Would you like to go out in the oil fields and work with the overall crowd?"

"I think it would be darned interesting. But I imagine I can be of more use here helping my father."

"Are you going to lead him along the lines of your own training?" the elder Rockefeller was asked.

"I hope he will turn out a great deal better than I have," said John D., Jr. "How long do you expect it will take you to find out what you want to do?" young Rockefeller was asked.

"Maybe a year from now I can tell you."

"Have you any ideas now about philanthropy?"

"Only vaguely."

John D., III, was asked if he would continue to live at home.

"Well," said his father, "we haven't turned him out yet."

Someone asked young Rockefeller if his heart was still his own.

"Absolutely," was the answer.

Edsel Ford's formal statement said:

"We are able to make this wage increase partly because of anticipated economies and the great volume of production which we have had over a period of months and partly because of our excellent outlook for next year."

"Lately we passed on the benefit of some of our economies to our customers in the form of reduced prices on our cars and now we share with our workers."

"It is our constant policy to do these two things. Wage increases cannot be collected from the public, nor can they be taken out of the quality of the product; they have to be made up by better management of the work."

"That is the way we intend to justify that increase."

Windsor, Ont., Dec. 3.—The Ford Motor Company of Canada, employing approximately 5,500 men, will follow the lead of its parent organization in the United States and increase wage schedules on practically the same scale as announced by Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, it was learned from an authoritative source today.

Windsor, Ont., Dec. 3.—Wage increases amounting to $1,000,000 yearly and affecting every employee of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., in the main manufacturing plant here and in branches throughout the Dominion, were announced today by Wallace R. Campbell, president, becoming effective December 3.

Appropriation Sought for Public Lands Commission

Washington, Dec. 3.—(U.P.)—Carrying out one of the recommendations contained in President Hoover's message to congress, Chairman Colton, of the house public lands committee, today introduced a bill to provide $50,000 for expenses of the public lands commission recently appointed by President Hoover.

INCREASES HIS PLANT WAGES BY $20,000,000

IN ALL 139,960 MEN WILL BE BENEFITTED BY WAGE INCREASE

RANGES TO $1 INCREASE FOR 97 DAY MEN, 5 CENTS AN HOUR BETWEEN $7 AND $10 A DAY

By JAMES R. CONNOR (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 3.—(U.P.)—Henry Ford, the billionaire motor car manufacturer, today carried out his plan designed to aid the nation's business—a plan promised to President Hoover—by increasing his annual payroll $20,000,000.

The increase came on the basis of a one dollar a day increase to men making under $7 a day, and five cents an hour increase to those making between $7 and $10 a day.

In all 139,960 men benefited by this wage increase. On the payroll of the gigantic Ford interests today there were 24,320 men who benefit by the one dollar a day increase and 115,640 men by the five cents an hour increase.

These figures are based on the October payroll of the Ford Company, which totaled 144,900 men. However, by spring with new production being rushed, Ford officials estimated that probably approximately 150,000 men would be affected by the increase.

The increase is effective December 1.

It will total $20,000,000 yearly, or an average of about $1,628,450, a month. The probationary wage of $5, given to apprentice workers during their first 60 working days, was increased to $6.

The new wage scale will work out according to the following table:

27,410 men will receive $7.20 per day, 33,396 men will receive $7.40 per day, 22,871 men will receive $8.00 per day, 12,327 men will receive $8.40 per day, 17,536 men will receive $8.40 to $10.00 per day.

The increase takes effect only in the Ford company plants in the United States. Officials, however, expect Ford of Canada to announce a similar increase.

Ford assembly plants are located at Atlanta, Buffalo, Charlotte, N. C., Chester, Pa., Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dallas, Denver, Des Moines, Detroit, Houston, Indianapolis, Jacksonville, Kansas City, Kearney, N. J., Los Angeles, Louisville, Memphis, Milwaukee, New Orleans, Norfolk, Oklahoma City, Omaha, Pittsburgh, Portland, San Francisco, Seattle, Somerville, Mass., St. Louis, Minneapolis and St. Paul.

REOPENING OLD CLAIMS OF VETERANS

Art Hagberg Stresses Fact at American Legion Meeting

Among several matters of accumulated business for the American Legion at its last evening's meeting was the outstanding fact that the U. S. Veterans Bureau has re-opened for six months the old claims of disabled veterans of the World War. Art Hagberg stressed the fact that any veteran who has any claim whatsoever on the government can quite likely get results by properly filling out the necessary papers. The Minnesota state bonus applications will have to be made by the first of the year or privilege to receive same is lost.

Art Hagberg has been appointed as chairman of a committee to form a local chapter of the National Rifle Association. Ten Legion men who are interested will form the nucleus of this group for the promotion of rifle marksmanship and both low and high calibre rifles will be used for the ranges.

Cross to Attend Show

"Judge" Cross is president of the Minnesota Breeders, which is a state branch of the American Poultry Association. He has been engaged in the breeding and raising of poultry over a period of forty years.

Mr. Cross is an authority on the brooding and raising of baby chicks. He has made a thorough study of cod liver oil, having been through the laboratories of all important manufacturers of cod liver oil in the east. He has judged some of the best and most important poultry shows held in the Northwest during the past fifteen years.

Mr. Cross will be at the show tomorrow and Thursday and will talk to poultry raisers and fanciers on some of the best methods of raising poultry, preventing diseases, and feeding problems.

NORWEGIAN CRITICIZES COMMANDER BYRD

London, Dec. 3.—(U.P.)—British Antarctic explorers today attacked the argument of the Norwegian, Major Trygve Gran, who criticized the Byrd South Pole expedition in an interview with a newspaper at Copenhagen.

Gran was quoted as saying that an explorer could "ride a motorcycle to the South Pole over flat land." He also said that the United States could not claim the territory because of the explorations of discovery of Roald Amundsen in 1911 and 1912.

Capt. R. G. England, who commanded the Nimrod on Scott's 1907 expedition, and also was aboard the Antarctic ship Morning in 1902 and 1904, said Gran's purported statements were surprising. He described mountain ranges which had been surveyed and measured.

"There would be no reason to throw doubt on the existence of these ranges," England said. "The trip certainly could not be made on a motorcycle."

Capt. William Coldbeck, a member of the Southern Cross expedition of 1908, praised Commander Byrd's flight and said that it would have been impossible for the American aviators to sight the cairns erected at the Pole by Amundsen and Scott.

There has been but one death city will pay homage to the departed in the rank and file of members who has passed to the great beyond since the last Memorial day—Judge J. G. McGarry, who died on August 16, 1904.

In view of the recent successful operations in drilling for ore in the vicinity of Deerwood, the fact that some Duluth parties have moved a drill onto the farm of O. G. Lovequist, eight miles east of here, will be of interest to the people of Brainerd. It is claimed by those interested in this land that there are great deposits of ore and that the discoveries at Deerwood and vicinity is only a start.

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mr. Charles Axelson, of 1809 2nd St. South, Minneapolis, Minn., says: "I was troubled with a disordered stomach and loss of appetite. Tanlac put new life in me. I've put on 11 lbs. and feel as well as I ever did in my life!"

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

$3,000 NEON SIGN FOR SIXTH STREET

Structure to be 60 Feet Wide, Supported by Two 35 Foot Posts

TO POINT TO NEW PARAMOUNT

Will Reach From the Corner of N. P. Park to the Y. M. C. A. Corner

A large Neon electric sign pointing to the new Paramount theatre on Front street will be erected soon according to George D. Irwin, manager of the Lyceum and Paramount theatres. The sign which will be 35 feet long and 11 feet high will be put across Sixth street from the corner of the Northern Pacific park to the Y. M. C. A. corner. It will be supported by two large tower-like structures 35 feet high, similar to those on Michigan boulevard in Chicago.

The structure reaching across the street is ornamental in itself and will be 60 feet wide. A large electric lamp will be hung from the top of each tower. The structure will clear the street by 18 feet.

There will be two rows of Neon letters on the sign. The word "Paramount" on the first line will be in 24 inch letters, while the word theatre below will be in letters 18 inches high. An arrow pointing to the new theatre will be below. The arrow will be eight inches high and 35 feet long.

Athlete's Penalty

A charley-horse is a severe pain suffered by athletes. It may be described as a sudden bunching of muscles into a hard knot. The charley-horse is usually caused by the tearing apart of some fibers of the muscles as the result of overstrain. A hemorrhage in the muscles is produced and the injury manifests as a swelling, generally attended with great pain.

Investment—Not a Tax

MANY motor vehicle owners in Minnesota think that they are compelled to pay a high tax, while the fact is that they pay less than the great majority of owners in all but two states, says the St. Cloud Times.

In this state the license fee is all they pay on their cars, while in others a personal property tax is added to the license fee.

The license and gas taxes are a big paying dividend. The trunk highway system is entirely financed from the motor vehicle licenses, with two-thirds of the gas tax added.

The counties are relieved from the expense of these trunk roads, carrying about 80 per cent of the total traffic. The counties get all the one-mill tax, and one-third the gas tax.

Every owner of an automobile is saved more in operating cost from good roads than he pays in license and gas tax. If there were more paved highways the saving would be larger.

It has been demonstrated that where traffic is heavy paved roads are economical.

There was held at Paynesville, this county, an enthusiastic meeting by representatives of several towns, including St. Cloud, that asked for the paving of the road from St. Cloud to Rockville, Cold Spring, Richmond and Paynesville, and on to Willmar. It has been impossible for the care-taker to keep this graveled highway in good condition, because of the heavy traffic. Commissioner Babcock is willing enough to pave this trunk line, but it will probably be impossible for a year or two, for lack of funds. There is an insistent demand from all sections of the state for paving—which is a reflection on the good sense of the legislature, and the people back of the law-makers, to fail to provide the commissioner with the necessary money.

When a bond issue was first asked, some years ago, three representatives in Starns county prevented the legislature from authorizing the bond issue. The county commissioners aided Babcock in getting paving through the county on No. 3 by issuing county bonds, which will be paid by the trunk highway fund.

It takes money to pave, and no owner of a motor vehicle will have to pay any more if the highway commissioner were properly financed and no property owners not having a car would have to pay a penny for this very necessary paving.

Paving where the traffic is excessive is not a tax but an investment.

Let us hope the legislature, stimulated by a vigorous public sentiment, will have the wisdom to comprehend this simple fact, and give Commissioner Babcock the necessary coin to keep Minnesota to the front in road-making, instead of having it lag far to the rear of our sister states. Then we can demand paving and get it.

Growing Consumption of Electricity

THERE is plainly evident in Brainerd the fact that consumption of electric light and power is growing and the time will come when the area here will have to be re-arranged to give added service.

In the old days it was believed that the great increase would come on the iron range. Brainerd, however, has added many stores and industries and the demand for electric light and power is growing.

Low water in the Mississippi has caused The Northwest Paper Company to look about for electric power. New consumers are the Scott Stores, Inc., Montgomery Ward & Company, the new high school, the Public theater with its extensive theater signs, Russell Creamery Co., and many others.

In line with rearrangements in the electric field will come a new switchboard adequate for the increased load.

Nagurski Recognized

BRONKO NAGURSKI, the pulverizing Pole, has received national recognition by being placed on the United Press All-American first team, occupying the position of right tackle.

We have seen him play. So have many other Brainerd people and all are sure he is getting the honor he richly deserves. Whenever Nagurski was called upon to deliver, he came through like his celebrated predecessor Joesting. Both are men of vigorous type.

Nagurski is the first Minnesotan to achieve honor in other positions, his ability as a fullback being recognized as of All-American caliber.

And, by the way, International Falls, where Bronko hails from, is quite proud of its distinguished fellow citizen. Half the town went to the game to see Minnesota and Michigan battle.

Milk Drinkers Live Longer

"EVERYBODY'S HEALTH" mentions that at one time it was customary for beautiful women to bathe in asses' milk, believing that external application of milk was an aid to beauty.

Nowadays, modern science declares internal application of milk is one of the finest means of obtaining the beauty that comes with health. Not only that, but they tell us now that we may live ten per cent longer if we drink milk.

Milk drinkers live ten per cent longer than persons from whose diet milk is excluded, according to a recent editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Knowledge of nutrition is constantly growing. Perhaps in the future, even more than ten per cent will be added to our life time, by the popular usage of the perfect food, milk.

THIS is the time of the year when the household approaches Pa and refers to the purchase of Christmas presents and inquires whether Pa will advance the money or have the buying charged up. Pa's own presents that are bought for him frequently show up in the aforesaid bill.

A VERY true word was said in the jest of a talkie starring Bebe Daniels. The two comedians of the show were dwelling on how long a honeymoon lasted. The cooing, said the wiser one of the two, ends within two weeks, but the billing goes on forever.

THE Morrison County Teachers Institute will be held at Little Falls December 12 and 13 under the direction of Mrs. Agnes Pyne of the State Department of Education.

THE greatest surprise in the talkies has been to hear the really good singing voice of Beebe Daniels.

BRAINERD HIGH SCHOOL, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1929

Number 13

THANKSGIVING PROGRAMS HELD
IN BOTH BUILDINGS WEDNESDAY"JOHN AND PRISCILLA" ARE DE-PICTED IN BRAINONIAN
SKIT

"John and Priscilla," depicted in a Brainerd skit last Wednesday in the Thanksgiving program, by Carl Holvick and Alice Nolan, succeeded in keeping away from "ye olde hang out" long enough to save $1.25 which they immediately invested in a 1930 annual. Hilda Dybvick again acted the part of "Irene, the village queen," and played three popular accordion selections, Muisto Pohjola, our noted mouth organ harmony producer, also appeared on the scene, played "Honey" and responded to an enthusiastic demand for an encore. A humorous reading, "The Circus Turkey," was given by Roger Callahan.

As Juniors and Seniors would rarely call such a program complete without the usual community singing, Miss Olson resumed her customary place at the piano, Miss Ruthe hers on that magnificent "platform" and numerous joyful notes issued forth from the lips of many happy students. Such favorites as "The Vagabond Lover," "Am I Blue," and "The Minnesota Rouser" were sung. Then came the old clash, boys vs. girls, on "The Spanish Cavalier" and "Solomon Levi."

Program at Old Court House
Regardless of crowded conditions which might ordinarily discourage even the most stout-hearted Thanksgiving was appropriately recognized in the old Court House as well as the city hall.

Selections by the school orchestra opened the program, to be followed by a harmonica solo contributed by Muisto Pohjola. Jean Cibuzar read a Thanksgiving sketch and Howard Zander offered a humorous selection called "Illustrations of Youth." Then Alfred Menz and Carl Oberg presented a Thanksgiving play.

The program closed with selections by the Thursday chorus under the direction of Miss Rickard.

SCOUTS INSTRUCT GIRLS IN ART OF KNOT TYING

Parker Campbell, Drexel Geist and John Folsom of Scout Troop No. 15 taught the Netoppew group to tie ten different kinds of knots at this Campfire meeting Monday. The acquired knots are: bow line, square knot, shee bend, sheepshank, double half hitch, timber hitch, girth hitch, clove hitch, single half hitch, fisherman's knot.

Miss Michael offered to find a family to which the group will attempt to give a bit of Christmas cheer by sending them a box of toys, food and clothing.

Hi-Y and Tri-Hi Clubs Hold
Joint Meeting Monday

Rev. A. G. Patterson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, addressed a joint meeting of the Hi-Y clubs and the Tri-Hi organization, held last Monday night at the Y. M. C. A. Rev. Patterson discussed the effect that the Bible has upon the lives of individuals. As a book it has perhaps the same appearance as any other volume but its content has proved to be the inspiration of countless people.

This meeting which was in the nature of an experiment, continued with a program, offered by members of the various organizations. Marjorie Forsberg contributed two readings and the entire gathering held a community sing under the leadership of Mr. Penrose. Alice Peterson, leading officer of the Tri-Hi introduced the presidents of the clubs, Drexel Geist of the Junior Hi-Y and Clarence Holden of the Senior Hi-Y.

DECLAMATION TRYOUTS TO BE HELD IN JANUARY

Seventy-three declamation contestants will be given elimination try-outs the first week in January immediately after the holidays. Eight persons in each of the dramatic and humorous groups are to be selected to represent the Brainerd high school in further contests. Dramatic tryouts will be held on Wednesday, January 8, and humorous aspirants will be heard Thursday, January 9.

Those who are not fortunate enough to be selected among the first eight in each group will not be left by the wayside but are to be given more instruction so that they may appear on later assembly programs.

TRYOUTS TO BE HELD
FOR SR. CLASS PLAY

Tryouts for the senior production of "Midsummer Night's Dream" are being held this week. Seniors who are interested, are urged to obtain copies of Shakespeare's play and be ready when called upon. Miss Tornstrom, senior adviser, issued the call for the first tryouts today.

All the members of the class are anxious that this play be an outstanding event of the year. It is therefore essential that talent be brought to light for good use.

STUDENT OPINION

To the Editor:

Last year on Monday mornings we had singing in the assemblies. Can't we have it again this year? It was a most enjoyable thing. Singing the students in good voices. I think it is "Blue Monday."

Can't something be done so that we may have our community singing again this year?

Editor's Note: Owing to the crowded conditions in both the City Hall and the Old Court House it has been found that it is almost impossible for the students to assemble to sing. As there are now only three weeks left until Christmas vacation nothing can be done about the situation until after Christmas when the new high school will be ready for occupancy. Then without a doubt the students will have a chance to brighten the "Blue Monday."

BOYS' GLEE CLUB AT WORK FOR OPERETTA

Miss Rickard has organized a boys' glee club which meets on Monday nights and they are working on four part music. The boys are doing some very good work this year, and almost all of them are attending practices very regularly. This chorus as well as the other choruses may appear before the footlights, before the year is over. The following are members of this chorus.

First tenors: Clifford Dybvick, Roland Jenkins, Charles Maki, Earl Oberg, Ray Paine, Lester Peterson.
Second tenors: Gaylord Anderson, Lloyd Cain, Dwight Curo, Edmund Jernberg, Warner Odenthal, Howard Zander.

First basses: Edward Burke, Lester Erickson, Ralph Hallquist, Maurice Larson, Kenneth Malmstrom, Russell Nyland, Eldred Rasch, Victor Ritia, Richard Rice, Ashley Stanley, George Lundberg, Darrold Wadsworth, John Zander.
Second basses: Howard Beggs, Devere Beckley, Lester Compton, George Fox, Eugene Maki, Fred Mraz, Rudolph Ottelin, Ross Olmsted, David Weber.

Brainerd Delegates Attend
Older Boys' Conference

David Templeton, Lyle Anderson, Fred Doeppke, Clarence Holden, Adolf Erickson, Obert Benson, William Johnson in company with Messrs. Peterson and Penrose, attended the Older Boys Conference held at Fergus Falls, several weeks ago. William Johnson was selected president of the association.

Problems pertaining to high school boys were discussed at the meetings and a world challenge was hurled at the young men present, a challenge to prove that the younger generation can well measure up to standards set for them by older people. Mr. Brecker, secretary of Y. M. C. A. boys work, issued this inspiring challenge. The boys visited the insane asylum and now have a deeper sympathy for the inmates of that institution.

Subject of Vocations
Taken Up by Hi-Y Club

Adolf Erickson was the chief speaker at the regular Senior Hi-Y meeting held at the Y. M. C. A. last Wednesday. His subject was "Vocations" and he urged members to choose a life work and then bend all energies to achieve one's ambition.

The organization is sponsoring a pencil sale to raise money for general expenses. The basketball schedule is printed on the pencil for the benefit of all eager fans.

Two more members may be added to the club so that candidates may present themselves to be voted on later.

James Garvey Elected
Football Captain for '30

James Garvey, 1931, was unanimously chosen captain of the 1930 football team at a banquet given by Garvey's restaurant several weeks ago. James is an outstanding player and will, no doubt, lead the team on to many a victory.

The banquet was held for the entire football squad who were extremely fortunate to have a real turkey dinner presented to them. After dinner talks were given by squad members and coaches.

An account of this important event was prepared for last week's Brainonian but was inadvertently crowded out, a situation for which we sincerely apologize.

When "Midsummer Night's Dream" was produced in 1888 at Daly's theatre, New York, John Drew, Otis Skinner, Ada Rehan, Edward Wilkes, Charles Leclercq and William Gilbert were members of the cast.

"Midsummer Night's Dream" has been chosen by the Senior class for its presentation some time before spring.

YE EDITOR

The decision of the Senior class to present the Shakespearean fantasy, "Midsummer Night's Dream," marks a new era in the history of the Brainerd high school. The opportunity of presenting a class play with a classical background has been realized for the first time. With the new school in which to stage the play the cost of production has been greatly reduced and the money saved can be used for costumes, scenery, and stage effects. Although a play of this type is a radical departure from those of the past, it is believed that the advantages will be so marked that no doubt will be left in the minds of the students as to which they like the better.

If the attendance at the presentation of "Julius Caesar" is any criterion, the Senior class feels that the general public desires performances of worthwhile productions. Such being the case, the class will endeavor to give the public what it wants.

Memorial, Class Play

Hold Seniors' Interest

Painting of a picture for the Senior class memorial by Mrs. Heald was brought to the attention of the students by the committee on this project and was discussed, but as there were not enough members present no definite action could be taken. This meeting was held last Tuesday afternoon at the city hall.

The class play was discussed and Miss Tornstrom advised everyone to read "Midsummer Night's Dream" and select out a part each one would desire. Try outs for the play are to start this week.

Class dues must be paid immediately. Seniors must report at meetings if any action is to be taken on important matters.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS CLUB
TO VISIT COURT HOUSE

After a successful first meeting, the newly organized Social Problems club is anticipating a pleasant and profitable evening, when it, as an organization, will visit the county court house under the guidance of W. A. M. Johnstone, clerk of court. Mr. Johnstone will explain the work of the various departments of county government.

Members of the club are asked to gather at the city hall assembly, 7:30 next Tuesday evening, December 9, before going to the court house. The eligibility list will be published in next week's Brainonian.

STUDENTS CONTRIBUTE FOOD FOR CITY'S POOR

Brainerd high school students contributed liberally to Thanksgiving baskets for the poor. Jams, jellies, cans of food, packages of spaghetti and oatmeal, and vegetables of all descriptions were piled high on the safe in Miss Tornstrom's office until ready to be packed in the baskets.

One student brought enough vegetables to feed an average sized family for one meal. Cash contributions from the students amounted to over five dollars all of which helped to purchase meat for the needy.

Getting Out Our Paper

Getting out a paper it no picnic.

If we print jokes, folks say we are silly.

If we don't, they say we are too serious.

If we publish original matter, they say we lack variety.

If we publish things from other papers, we are too lazy to write.

If we are rustling news, we are not attending to business in our own department.

If we don't print contributions, we don't show proper appreciation.

If we do print them, the paper is filled with junk.

Like as not some fellow will say we swiped this from another paper.

NAGURSKI ON U. P. ALL-AMERICAN FOOTBALL TEAM OF 1929

TEAM IS TRULY REPRESENTATIVE OF ALL IT IMPLIES

EVERY SECTION OF COUNTRY HAS BEEN CLOSELY CAN-VAASSED BY UNITED PRESS

PLAYERS HAVE TO MEET NEW AND STRICTER REQUIREMENTS IN SELECTIONS

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 3. — The United Press' All-America football team of 1929, presented today, is truly representative of all that its name implies. Not only has every section of the country been closely canvassed and afforded opportunity for representation, but the players finally selected this year have had to meet new and stricter requirements.

It was not sufficient for a football player to have flashed brilliantly as an individual in a few games. To be named on the All-America team of 1929, a man had to stand out consistently in every department of the game required by his position throughout the entire season.

More than 200 football coaches, officials and critics from coast to coast joined in the consensus which made possible the selection of the United Press eleven, and in each case their recommendations were based upon a player's worth from the beginning to the end of his team's schedule.

This system of selection, obviously the fairest and most representative of the greatest of All-America teams, meant that certain of the year's remarkable players, such as Al Marsters of Dartmouth and Albie Booth of Yale, could not be included. Great as these quarterbacks were in certain games, neither was able to give his best for his team when it was most needed, and each, therefore, fell short of the requirements of the United Press eleven.

The United Press All-America teams for 1929:

FIRST TEAM
Left End—Francis Tappan, Southern California.
Left Tackle—Marion Hammon, Southern Meth.
Left Guard—Raymond Montgomery, Pittsburgh.
Center—Ben Ticknor, Harvard.
Right Guard—John Cannon, Notre Dame.
Right Tackle—Bronko Nagurski, Minnesota.
Right End—Joseph Donchess, Pittsburgh.
Quarterback—Frank Carideo, Notre Dame.
Left Half—Merle Hufford, U. of Washington.
Right Half—Gene McEver, Tennessee.
Fullback—Ralph Welch, Purdue.

SECOND TEAM
Left End—Fesler, Ohio State.
Left Guard—Sington, Alabama.
Center—Heinecke, Stanford.
Right Guard—Schwartz, California.
Right Tackle—Sleight, Purdue.
Right End—Schoonover, Arkansas.
Quarterback—Cagle, Army.
Left Half—Stennett, St. Mary's.
Right Half—Glasgow, Iowa.
Fullback—Parkinson, Pittsburgh.

THIRD TEAM
Left End—Bates, Western Maryland.
Left Tackle—Wakeman, Cornell.
Left Guard—Brumblow, T. C. U.
Center—Siano, Fordham.
Right Guard—Roberts, Iowa.
Right Tackle—Twomey, Notre Dame.
Right End—Churchill, Oklahoma.
Quarterback—Harmeson, Purdue.
Left Half—Leland, Texas Christian.
Right Half—Uansa, Pittsburgh.
Fullback—Banker, Tulane.

The 1929 All-America line, from end to end, is fully as strong as any that has been named in the past few years. In Ben Ticknor, Harvard's captain-elect, the team has a powerful, alert, roving center with the speed of a sprinter and the strength and energy of a tiger, who pinned down every back who carried the ball against the Crimson this season and was particularly effective in breaking up a forward passing attack. Heinecke, Stanford; Diano, Fordham; Riegels, California; Erickson, Northwestern; Havens, Western Maryland; and Tim Moynihan, Notre Dame, were other great centers.

The guards of 1929 were a mighty lot, but the United Press consensus agreed that two stood out above all the rest—John Cannon of Notre Dame and Ray Montgomery of Pittsburgh. These two players were responsible in many ways for the fact that their teams, unbeaten and untied after gruelling schedules, outranked all others in the country with exception of Purdue.

Closely pressing the All-America selections were Sington of Alabama and Schwartz, California's 200-pound grizzly, while Brumblow of Texas Christian and Roberts of Iowa were unanimous choices of the football experts of their sections.

Marion ("Scrap Iron") Hammon of Southern Methodist was the greatest linesman of the southwest, the best tackle ever developed in that section. In the Baylor game, three men were assigned to the job of taking care of Hammon, but none was able to gain, were made through his side of the line.

At the other tackle, Bronko Nagurski of Minnesota was the inevitable choice, his strength, speed, football sense and all-around ability causing him to be shifted frequently to the backfield, although he remained the best tackle of the middle-west, outranking even the great "Red" Sleight of Purdue. Sleight, with "Jap" Douds, of Washington and Jefferson, were chosen for the second eleven, with Captain Sam Wakeman of Cornell and Twomey of Notre Dame on the third team.

Francis Tappan of Southern California was the greatest end of the year and probably the best all-around football player on the Pacific coast. A smart defensive player who sized up every play, a hard and effective block-

Leatrice Joy in Ultra-Modern Vein Sings Praise of Present Trend in Conduct and Costume

Leatrice Joy, stage, vaudeville and screen actress, here at the Lyceum theatre tonight and Wednesday in her latest First National production of a play "A Most Immoral Lady," is modern. She is enthusiastically "for" the modern girl, the modern open-toe view clothing, the modernistic furniture, and she doesn't care who knows it. However, she has some very good and wholesome reasons why she is "for" them, and why she believes that they will contribute to the health and happiness of the human race.

"A film such as 'A Most Immoral Lady' suggests the whole modern trend," Miss Joy points out. "I was telling Walter Pidgeon, who plays opposite me in the picture, that only a few years ago I, as the heroine in the title role, would have been looked upon as a 'vamp' and a villainess, whereas now, we are certain, the character I portray will find sympathy, just as, in the plot, she is allowed to find happiness."

Musical Vibrations
The bureau of standards says that the frequency of the vibration corresponding to middle C (the note on the first ledger line below the treble clef or above the bass clef) is 256 complete vibrations (cycles) per second.

Mount Vernon's Fronts
There are two fronts on the Washington mansion at Mount Vernon, as there always were in Colonial times when a home was built on the banks of a river. The phrases "land front" and "water front" run through books on the subject of Colonial homes.

MAJOR AND MINOR LEAGUE OFFICERS GATHER

CHATTANOOGA IS THE SCENE OF 28TH ANNUAL CONVENTION

THREE-DAY SESSION OPENS IN TENNESSEE CITY TO-MORROW

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

Chattanooga, Tenn., Dec. 3.—Major and minor league baseball officials, gathering here today, prepared for the 28th annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues which opens a three-day session tomorrow.

Most of the major league clubs and all of the minor leagues in organized baseball were represented.

Among the more important questions which will come up are the draft, proposed legislation to curtail the overhead expenses of minor leagues, the election of an international league president, and the appeal of Infielder George Torporcer and Manager Billy Southworth of the Rochester International League Club. Torporcer was suspended for one year and Southworth fined $500 for their part in a riot in Rochester during the final game of the Little World Series against Kansas City.

Jack Hendricks, former manager of the Cincinnati Reds, who failed to get the presidency of the International League by one vote, may get the post at a meeting of the league officials here.

Many trades are expected to be made. The foundation for several major league trades probably will be laid here and the actual trades announced at the major league meetings at New York December 10, 11 and 12.

FOOTBALL in recent years so-and stocky—conspicuously exemplified the roving center plifying that fact. Many insist that this so-called "backbone" Siano is of first All-American quality.

His coach, Major Frank Cav-anaugh, agrees that Siano is a wonder and—"Cav" once coached the extraordinary Heaphy of Boston College in years when those hard-bitten Harps chewed up Yale's blue ribbon bulldogs twice in succession!

Putting a definite first All-American stamp on any center or any other player is mere whimsy, what with scores of worthy candidates starting in every section of the nation.

Among the leading line rovers are Heinecke, of Stanford; Ben Tony Siano of Fordham—sturdy Gene McEver, Tennessee's contribution to the 1929 All-America team, was the terror of southern gridirons this year, once they gave him the ball. A smashing, tireless, brilliant runner and line-breaker who doesn't know what it means to stop or be hurt, McEver hasn't had time taken out once during his college career. He was the driving power in Tennessee's successful sweep through the south and just the ball carrier needed for this year's team.

"Pest" Welch of Purdue, captain and inspiration of Purdue's great team, is just the type of back needed to round out the year's greatest backfield. No football team can be great without a blocking back, and for his ability in this respect alone Welch might be chosen. Welch, in addition to his blocking, excelled in every department of the game, however, and so earned the call over that other great back of the western conference, Captain Willis Glasgow of Iowa. The latter was the best ball carrier of the middle west, a demon on attack and defense.

So keen was the competition for places on the 1929 All-America eleven that many of the following players, who are accorded honorable mention by the United Press, might have been chosen without weakening the three teams finally selected. A list of 100 outstanding players from every section of the country follows:

Ends — Nemecek, N. Y. U.; Hug, Tennessee; Smith, Georgia; Norton, California; Dairyville, Tulane; Tanner, Minnesota; Van Sickle, Florida; Dixon, Boston College; Yudicky, Dartmouth; Provincial, Georgetown; Hurstley, Missouri; Baker, Northwestern.

Tackles — Schwieger, Washington; Ackerman, St. Mary's; Radlok, Marquette; Richards, Nebraska; Vincent, Yale; Westra, Iowa; Huntington, Colgate; Woerner, Bucknell; Mooney, Georgetown; Perry, Army.

Guards — Bodenger, Tulane; Anderson, Northwestern; Groustra, Drake; Greene, Yale; Brown, Vanderbilt; Drescher, Carnegie Tech; Crane, Illinois; Steele, Florida; Sanders, Southern Methodist; Farris, North Carolina; Barragar, Southern California; Obat, Syracuse; Thayer, Tennessee; Magai, Pennsylvania; Koch, Baylor; Buster, Colorado; Bauman, Kansas Aggies.

HOOVER'S FIRST ANNUAL MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

It is estimated that this will result in a reduction of $160,000,000 in income taxes to be collected during the calendar year 1930.

Foreign Debts

"The only indebtedness of foreign governments to the United States now unsettled is that of Russia and Armenia. The total amount of indebtedness of the various countries to the United States now funded is $11,579,465,885. The payments of the various governments to us on account of principal and interest for 1930 are estimated at a total of about $239,000,000, for 1931 at about $236,000,000, for 1932 at about $246,000,000. The measure of American compromise in these settlements may be appreciated from the fact that our taxpayers are called upon to find annually about $475,000,000 in interest and in addition to redeem the principal of sums borrowed by the United States government for these purposes.

General Economic Situation

The country has enjoyed a large degree of prosperity and sound progress during the past year with a steady improvement in methods of production and distribution and consequent advancement in standards of living. The long upward trend of fundamental progress, however, gave rise to over-optimism as to profits, which translated itself into a wave of uncontrolled speculation in securities, resulting in the diversion of capital from business to the stock market and the inevitable crash.

"The natural consequences have been a reduction in the consumption of luxuries and semi-necessities by those who have met with losses, and a number of persons thrown temporarily out of employment. Prices of agricultural products dealt in upon the great markets have been affected in sympathy with the stock crash.

"Fortunately, the federal reserve system had taken measures to strengthen the position against the day when speculation would break, which together with the strong position of the banks has carried the whole credit system through the crisis without impairment. The capital which has been hitherto absorbed in stock market loans for speculative purposes is now returning to the normal channels of business. There has been no inflation in the prices of commodities; there has been no undue accumulation of goods, and foreign trade has expanded to a magnitude which exerts a steady influence upon activity in industry and employment.

Agriculture

"The agricultural situation is improving. The gross farm income as estimated by the department of agriculture for the crop season 1928-29 was $12,100,000,000; for 1927-28 it was $12,300,000,000; for 1926-27 it was $12,500,000,000; and estimated on the basis of prices since the last harvest the value of the 1929-30 crop would be over $12,650,000,000. The slight decline in general commodity prices during the past few years naturally assists the farmers' buying power.

"The number of farmer bankruptcies is very materially decreased below previous years. The decline in land values now seems to be arrested and rate of movement from the farm to the city has been reduced. Responsible farm leaders have declared that a large measure of confidence is returning to agriculture and that a feeling of optimism prevails that industry."

Tariff

The tariff section of the message was almost entirely a transcript of the recommendations sent to the special session of congress on April 15, in which the president advocated a revision limited to those industrial commodities affected by changed economic condition abroad since the enactment of the Fournier-McCumber bill.

"No condition has arisen in my view to change these principles stated at the opening of the special session. I am firmly of the opinion that their application to the pending revision will give the country the kind of a tariff law it both needs and wants."

The flexible provisions of the existing law, modified by the senate in the special session, should be restored to return the rate revision power to the president.

Railways

As a whole, the railroads never were in such good physical and financial condition as the country has never been so well served by them. The greatest volume of freight traffic ever tendered is being carried at a speed never before attained and with satisfaction to the shippers. Efficiency and new methods have resulted in reduction in the cost of providing freight transportation, and freight rates show a continuous descending line from the level enforced by the World war.

"We have, however, not yet assured for the future that adequate system of transportation through consolidations which was the objective of the congress in the transportation act. Legislation to simplify and expedite consolidation methods and better to protect public interest should be enacted."

Electrical Power Regulation

The president urged reorganization of the federal power commission, to relieve the three cabinet officers who now comprise the body of the extra duties involved, and the establishment of a permanent expert commission.

"It is also desirable," he said, "that the authority of the commission should be extended to certain phases of power regulation."

"I do not favor the operation by the government of either power or manufacturing business except as an unavoidable by-product of some other major public purpose."

Conservation

"Conservation of our oil and gas resources against future need is a national necessity."

Departmental Reorganization

"This subject has been under consideration for over 20 years. It was promised by both political parties in the recent campaign."

"With this background of all previous experience I can see no hope for the development of a sound reorganization of the government unless congress be willing to delegate its authority over the problem (subject to defined principles) to the executive, who should upon approval of a joint committee of congress or with the reservation of power or revision by congress within some limited period adequate for its consideration."

Prohibition

"The first duty of the president under his oath of office is to secure the enforcement of the laws. First, there should be immediate concentration of responsibility and strengthening of enforcement agencies of the federal government by the transfer to the department of justice of the federal functions of detection and to a considerable degree of prosecution, which are now lodged in the prohibition bureau in the treasury; and at the same time the control of the distribution of industrial alcohol and legalized beverages should remain in the treasury. Second, provision should be made for relief of congestion in the federal courts by modifying and simplifying the procedure for dealing with the large volume of petty prosecutions under various federal acts. Third, there should be a codification of the laws relating to prohibition to avoid the necessity which now exists of resorting to more than 25 statutes enacted at various times over 40 years. Technical defects in these statutes that have been disclosed should be cured. I would add to these recommendations the desirability of reorganizing the various services engaged in the prevention of smuggling into one border patrol under the coast guard. Further recommendations upon the subject as a whole will be developed after further examination by the law enforcement commission, but it is not to be expected that any criminal law will ever be fully enforced so long as criminals exist."

"The District of Columbia should be the model of city law enforcement in the nation."

210,000 Camp Fire Girls Give First Aid To Santa Claus This Christmas

Convalescents in a Doll Hospital. Camp Fire Girls dressing dolls which they have repaired for Christmas

By VIOLET MOORE HIGGINS
Author of
"The Real Story of a Real Doll"

The Christmas season is one of work for the 210,000 Camp Fire Girls of the Country. And many times this number of poor children depend upon their work to make Christmas the bright season in an otherwise drab year.

Everywhere Doll Hospitals are being organized and to them are rushed the emergency cases of Toyland. Armless dolls, legless dolls, dolls with disconcerting optical troubles, are brought in thousands for treatment.

Their small mothers surrender them to less fortunate children with an altruism never to be achieved by grown-ups. For even motherhood must not be taken too seriously in Toyland.

There are also the dolls, perfect physically, but who, sartorially, have seen better days. Their finery which once, no doubt, thrilled the fashionables at some Elfin Newport or Narragansett, is soiled and out of date. Too ardent affection has thinned the golden or raven locks, and an advanced rheumatic condition is indicated by the sharp creaking of their once supple limbs. They are distinctly passé.

High and low, fashionable and dowdy, the doll baby with wonder-filled eyes, and the imported French Doll, with set and supercilious smile—they are all fumigated. Missing limbs and hair are supplied, and they regain, magically, that school-girl complexion. Camp Fire modistes cut and sew busily, and Fashion again makes them her own. At Christmas time they go forth into new homes with the consciousness of looking their best.

Besides dolls, the Camp Fire Girls repair every kind of toy to gladden the little underprivileged children of their neighborhood. In many cases, local theatre owners give children's performances to which the admission charged is one toy. Local tradesmen furnish trucks to cart the toys to the centers established by the girls. Toy manufacturers, without thought of competition, give of their stocks.

Christmas tree decoration and carol singing are on the programs of many groups. Open house is held at some camps where crackling fires, beautiful trees and good things to eat, spread Christmas cheer. Candy making and the filling of stockings alternate with carol singing at Soldiers' Homes, orphanages, and hospitals. And through it all is the happy rattle and clatter of the Doll Hospitals and Toy Repair shops.

All these are a few of the activities of the 210,000 Camp Fire Girls of America at Christmas time. And for all children, and many adults, these things set "the horns of Elf-land faintly blowing."

Guessing Games

They were a lot of fun when we were youngsters, those guessing games. Guess who this is! Guess the number of beans in the pot! Guess how long the pendulum will swing! Sometimes we came pretty close to the right answer. Sometimes we were a long way off. Whichever we were, we all had a good time, and the worst guesser got as much of the evening's refreshments as the best.

How far away those guessing games seem now! And how they have lost their appeal. Perhaps it's because we learned, as we grew older, that to know is better than to guess. Guess which is the best package on the grocer's shelf! Guess which bolt of cloth is pure wool! Guess which talking machine will give us most satisfaction! No, guessing for those things wasn't so much fun. We wanted to be certain. And that was one of the reasons we turned to advertising.

Advertising takes the guesswork out of buying. It lets us know what is best and what is cheapest and what will last longest. It does away with unsatisfactory uncertainties. The advertisements in this newspaper tell a concise, interesting and accurate story about articles you need. Reading them is the surest and quickest path to wise buying. It eliminates guessing.

By reading the advertisements regularly, and buying advertised goods, you take the guessing out of spending your money.

THROUGH HIGHWAYS ARE PROPOSED BY COUNCIL

New Ordinance Given Its First Reading at Council Session Last Night

MILK LICENSES GRANTED

Public Theatre Corporation Given Privilege to Erect Large Neon Sign Near Y. M. C. A.

The first reading of the ordinance concerning through highways in the city of Brainerd was made before the city council last evening. The following highways have been designated as through highways and motorists must come to a full stop, if the ordinance is passed, before crossing these highways or going onto them: Oak street from Sixth street to Nineteenth street inclusive; Sixth street from Maple street to Willow street inclusive, and Laurel street from First street to Fourth street inclusive. The second reading of the new ordinance will take place at the next regular meeting of the council.

If the new ordinance passes, any violation of it, can be punished by a fine of not more than $100 or a jail sentence of not more than 90 days. It the ordinance passes it will be referred to the State Highway department, which will furnish stop signs to be erected at the crossings of the streets concerned.

The property owners along Hazel street between the east line of south Eighth street and the west line of south Tenth street, were ordered on the assessment rolls to take care of the expenses grading a 24 foot road-way along the abutting property. The total amount to be raised is $264.65 and the cost of a lot frontage of 25 feet is $6.85. Twenty-two lots are affected.

Licenses to sell milk and cream were granted to the following, who were recommended by the dairy inspector: Mrs. E. Lund, Andrew J. Nelson, P. A. Nelson, Fred H. Beck, David Sandberg, Charles Oravala, and Adolph Johnson.

The privilege to erect a large Neon sign across Sixth street from a location in front of the Y. M. C. A. to a point across the street was granted to the Public Theatres Corporation, represented by Geo. D. Irwin, manager of the Lyceum theatre. The new sign will point to the new Paramount theatre that is nearing completion on Front street. It will be 18 feet above the street, and will be supported by two towers, 35 feet high on each side of the street. This sign is 11 feet in height.

On a motion by Alderman W. J. Lyons, seconded by Alderman W. J. Hall the Water and Light department was instructed to remove the large "Welcome" sign that now hangs over Sixth street between the Ransford building and the First National bank building. The sign is to be left down until a more suitable location is decided upon by the council. The corner of Oak and Sixth street was discussed as a possible location for the sign, but no action was taken.

The Public Theatres Corporation was granted a parking space 50 feet in length in front of the entrance of the new Paramount theatre on Front street.

A letter was read from the Whittier Parent Teachers Association objecting to the low flying of airplanes over the Whittier school. The letter was referred to the police committee.

A TRIP TO THE POULTRY SHOW

I'm not much hand to travel round, I'd rather stay at home. And let the thrilling sights be seen By folks who love to roam. But long about this time of year, I always long to go And mingle with the people At a real live poultry show.

I like to talk with old time friends, And get their point of view. I like to chat the salesmen With the poultry journals, too. No, I don't want to hurry, I'd rather just go slow. And take my time and see it all At a real live poultry show.

I stop and note the bawling On the champion Plymouth Rock. I like to hear the crowing Of a lusty Leghorn cock. I get a "kick" in watching All the different breeds that grow; It's a "grand and glorious feelin'" To attend a poultry show.

I like to watch the judges As they move along the aisle, And see them place the ribbons While the owners proudly smile. Yes, I can get the greatest thrill Of any place I know, A-paradin' down the alley In a red hot poultry show. —From the Leghorn Journal.

INSTALL NEW MACHINE

Hebert's Barber and Beauty Shop Now Have "Blud Rub" Mechanism

An electrical machine was installed this morning in Hebert's Barber and Beauty shop on the corner of Sixth and Laurel streets for scalp treatments. The new machine, installed at quite a cost to the proprietor, employs four rubber pads, electrically operated, that fit over the head of the person being treated. The pads are used for scalp massaging and to bring blood to the scalp. The machine is said to be a great help in the cure of dandruff and is very invigorating for the hair. This is the only machine of the kind in the city at the present time.

"The Masked Hostess"

by BLAIR STEVENSON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

An old abandoned Long Island estate, "The Firs," is the only inheritance Nathalie Van Sjaick finds has been left by her once wealthy sportsman father, "Happy Jack" Van Sjaick. Repulsed by her rich aunt, Mrs. Pemberton Swayne, Nathalie, in desperation, cashes a check knowing she has no funds in the bank. With no other resources, Nathalie agrees to act as hostess to a rich South American, Capt. Ramon Stefano, who has taken over "The Firs" supposedly to entertain his wealthy friends. She does this on one condition, that she is to remain masked and her identity to remain a secret. John Sloan, young lawyer, assigned to care for Nathalie's affairs, has fallen in love with Nathalie. Without her knowledge, Sloan has made good the false check. He warns her of this strange venture she is about to embark upon, fearing her romantic nature will force her to capitulate to Stefano's charm and the spirit of adventure attending her unusual position. Neither of them knows that Stefano is without funds and is being financed by Ferris, a New York ex-policeman, who wishes to locate Nathalie and obtain possession of "The Firs," knowing that a new state road will enhance its value. Long Island's wealthiest society people attend the opening of "The Firs" and are intrigued by the Masked Hostess, who is disguised as a black-haired senorita. Nathalie is delighted when none of her friends recognize her. Nathalie, fascinated by the handsome Stefano, finds herself in his arms, but quickly eludes him as his lips reach for hers. Next day, receiving an advance payment of $1,000, Nathalie goes to Brookville to the bank. She meets John Sloan. In Southampton, Mrs. Pemberton Swayne, reading a society paper, learns of Stefano's adventure. In New York, Ferris, mysterious ex-policeman, likewise is irritated when he reads of Stefano's intriguing Masked Hostess. Meeting Stefano, Ferris looks him about the Masked Hostess. Stefano is warned to look out for Nathalie. At a masked party at "The Firs" he learns that Mrs. Pemberton Swayne is present.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIII.

MERCIFULLY for Sylvia Swayne and Monty Delaine, Mrs. Pemberton Swayne had not seen her daughter's sudden capitulation to John Barleycorn.

She was busy "checking up," as Monty said she would be. When Stefano saw her when he came indoors again she was talking to Nathalie and Nathalie was answering in brief sentences. What was visible of Nathalie's face below her mask was expressionless.

A harlequin came up to Nathalie and she danced away with him. Mrs. Swayne, seeing Stefano, smiled in his direction and he went over to her.

"You are a genius, Captain Stefano," she said. "Your party is adorable."

In a sense she meant this. As the party was entirely of her creating it was of course adorable. As to his genius, she was prepared to concede that in him, because, coming to the house in the conviction that the masked hostess, who received with him in it, might be some high born South American whom he would acknowledge as his affianced some night after she had laid aside her mask, she had become convinced after talking to Nathalie that Nathalie was not a person of sort and condition.

She was not in on the secret of Stefano's reduced financial state.

So since she was not in the secret either of her own daughter's secret engagement to John Barleycorn or of her own daughter's secret engagement to Stefano, she was more than ready to be gracious to Stefano and reinstate him in her mind as a potential son-in-law vastly worth while.

She asked him if he was not going to dance with her.

"Pining to," he declared as he put his arm about her. For a woman on the brink of fifty she danced exceptionally well. He acknowledged this to himself as she swayed in his arms to the band's eerie rhythm.

"You know," he said, coming to a point that was in his mind direct. He wanted to know where her niece was. "You know you've went and gone and done it, what?—fetchin' me out here like this. What I mean—I know you, dear lady. Mrs. Pemberton Swayne, of course?"

"I might have known you'd know. You always were diabolically clever. Simply a genius. But you precious man, how did you know?"

"Nothing simpler," he answered, and smiled down at her. "Just that you can dance. Precious few can, you know."

"What I mean is bodily co-ordination flawless. Eye, hand and limb all together like one. 'Member one night I bored you a bit by giving the topic up at dinner. 'Twas nice of yours was there at the time and I insisted she had it. Said it ran in your blood, as of course it does. Out at Southampton we all were . . ."

"Oh, yes, Nathalie. Poor child," Mrs. Swayne stopped her dancing in the middle of a bar. "I must talk to you about her. Take me somewhere where we can." "But first," she said as they sat down, "I must compliment you on your extraordinary intelligence. You're an extraordinary man, you are unquestionably." She indicated Nathalie, who passed at the moment in the arms of her harlequin. "For that reason, if for no other."

And She Had Deceived Mrs. Swayne Completely.

"You mean—y'know I don't quite—"

"Oh, yes, you do. She's marvelous. What I'm trying to say and you insist on making it difficult for me, because your blood is Spanish and you're chivalrous—"

Mrs. Swayne spoke in French: "What you're trying to prevent my saying is that it would have been unkind of you to have brought a girl of any social stamp in here to help you pique society. And it would have been unkind. If, for instance, you had induced some one who was actually a lady to put her idle need of money above her pride of station and help you with this delightful Latin jest of yours. But instead of that you were kind. Where did you get her really—through some agency?"

"No indeed," and Stefano assumed a mysterious look. "She just dropped from the stars. Wasn't it extraordinary?" He did not resent anything she had said or intimated. He believed, now that he knew she had "put over" the masked party, that she had done it out of unmixing feminine curiosity and was talking to trip him into an identification of his hostess by compelling him to defend her.

He did not know that Nathalie, who had recognized her aunt by her voice, had been trembling with the fright she felt.

And she had deceived Mrs. Swayne completely. Else Mrs. Swayne, in whom pride of family ran high, could never have spoken her next few words, still in French in her voice still low in pitch.

"From the stars, of course—how kind and chivalrous. But nevertheless, she knows, you nice person. For since one does not speak Spanish and meeting no success in English, one spoke to her in French, and when she replied in atrocious French one knew."

Nathalie's atrocious French—she spoke French beautifully—had been sheer inspiration and her salvation.

Mrs. Swayne dropped the topic of the masked hostess.

"And oh, yes, about my dear niece. Poor child, since her father's tragic death she has grown strange and sensitive and flew at me when she was at Southampton and then went away without telling me where. I have tried to find her but have no trace of her. She is hiding somewhere with some friends of course—probably some one she knew abroad. It was really she who brought me here tonight, for of course, you will tell me where I can find her since you are her tenant here and must be in communication with her."

Stefano shook his head and explained that the lease he had had been made him by a receiver and through a bank.

"Really?" said Mrs. Swayne. "How baffling she is. Like her father, who was also difficult to deal with. But let us have courage. Do you remember at Southampton you said to us that you had once seen her dance at a masque at San Sebastian—or was it Biarritz?—and would know her anywhere again? But, of course, you do. Just a while ago you spoke of it again when you insisted that she and I danced alike—that is ran in our blood. Some night she will accompany friends here and you will recognize her at once."

Mrs. Swayne's eyes drifted after a girl in sage green dancing by with a falconer in scarlet. And Stefano glanced to look across the room.

He saw Nathalie with her harlequin—and instantly, by her slender foot, and her supple grace of body, and her turn of neck, and the poise of her lovely head, he knew her for who she was.
